THE HILLTOP 1921-1967

From 1921 until the spring of 1967 the three-storied red brick building on the hilltop has housed the high school students of the Pleasanton community. During these forty-six years the requirements set by the state Department of Education have become more demanding, and the once-proud facilities have become cramped, inadequate, and substandard.

As we move into our spacious new building, we take with us memories of achievements of which we are proud; of goals toward which we have struggled; of good friends we have made; and of happy times we have had because of our associations with this schoolhouse. It is our hope that this old building can in some way continue to serve the community; and that we can become better students and better citizens as we continue our adventure of learning in the new Pleasanton High School.

To the Class of 1967 and Students of Pleasanton High School:

On this occasion marking the publication of a new edition of "Hill Top," I extend to you my congratulations and offer you my best wishes for the future.

You, the Class of 1967, will have a special place in my memories. This yearbook's record of a memorable year will serve to stimulate our mutual recollections in the years to come.

As you now pass this milestone of education, the broadening concepts, principles, ideas, and skills you carry away with you will pave the way to your even greater contributions to the demands of the future.

This has been a most rewarding and enjoyable year with you, both officially and during the friendly social occasions we have shared. I sincerely hope that fond memories of your working and leisure hours during this year will again be brought to mind by "Hill Top of '67."

The faculty and staff join me in wishing you good luck and Godspeed.

STUDENT COUNCIL

One of the basic needs of all schools, large and small, throughout the world is an understanding between the students and the teachers. This type of student-teacher co-operation is necessary for any semblance of efficiency in the school system. The Student Council, while acting in a liaison capacity between student body and faculty, achieves this end. In addition, it develops in the students a sense of the democratic way of life. Coupled with this, it brings forth many of tomorrow's leaders. The Student Council is a fine organization, and I sincerely hope that the students, by their support, will allow it to continue in the years to come.

SPEECH & DRAMATICS

INSTRUCTOR

Anna Mary Crawford

The students leaving Speech Class this year do so with a feeling of accomplishment. Not only did the students attain the obvious goal of presenting well-prepared speeches, but also they learned the skills of giving oral reports, demonstrations, panel discussions, and debates, as well as, orations, poetry and prose interpretations, and duet acting.

This year, Pleasanton adopted a new plan for the presentation of its dramatic productions. Under this plan, the Speech students assumed the responsibility for the casting and production of the two school plays. The Junior and Senior classes, as usual, took care of publicity and the business management, and received all the profits. This arrangement was very profitable to all concerned since it gave more experience to the Speech students, and at the same time raised money for the Junior and Senior classes.

The most exacting and exciting event in the year's activities was the District Speech Contest held at St. Mary's High School in Pittsburg, Kansas. The 13 entrants received four I ratings, eight II ratings, and one IV rating.

Meredith Miller with her dramatic reading from "In White America"; Ray and Kay Henkle with a duet act from the Greek tragedy, "Medea"; Sondra Rees with an informative speech, "Aspirin, the Wonder Drug that Cures Nothing"; and Judy Johnson with her interpretation of the poem, "Mary Lou Wingate" by Stephen Vincent Benet, received the I's.

Students receiving II's were Teresa St. James, Poetry interpretation, "Up at a Villa, Down in the City", by Browning; Ada Smith and Karen George with prose interpretations from Mark Twain's, "Diary of Adam" and "Advice to Young People", respectively; Sandy Umphenour, original oration, "An American Tragedy", Ray Henkle extemporaneous speaking; Janet Hostetter, informative speech, "Malignancies of Childhood"; Marylyde Kornfeld and Judy Johnson, duet act from "Raisin in the Sun"; and Sharon Carter and Cinda Thatcher, duet act from "The Miracle Worker". Glenn Turpen received a IV with his reading, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" by Robert Louis Stevenson.

Those students receiving I ratings at the District contest were than qualified to enter the State Contest at Emporia. At the State Contest, Sondra Rees duplicated her first performance and received a I or highly superior rating. Meredith Miller received a II rating and Ray and Kay Henkle and Judy Johnson received III's.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

INSTRUCTORS

Mr. Gary Johnson, Mr. Dan Arnold, Mr. Ed Martin

This year the Music Department had the rather confusing experience of changing music teachers three times. This situation, however, seems to have had no effect on the activeness of the music groups.

At the beginning of the year, the band performed special half-time shows during the home football games. This year a new precision drill system was used. As an annual event the band participated in the parade and half-time festivities of Homecoming at Kansas State College of Pittsburg. The band also marched in the Veterans' Day Parade at Mound City. Members from the band formed a pep band to build enthusiasm and add entertainment at the home basketball games. All groups of the high school Music Department participating with those of the grade school, presented the music for the Christmas Pageant. In March the vocal groups participated in the Vocal Clinic held at Blue Mound and the band members were hosts for the Band Clinic which was held in Pleasanton. Home rooms for the four participating schools were in the new music and shop building, used for the first time that day. The combined District and State Music Contest was held at Kansas State College of Pittsburg. The Girls' Glee Club received a II rating and the Band and Mixed Chorus both received III ratings. Two soloists from Pleasanton attended. Meredith Miller received I ratings on her bassoon solo and her two vocal solos. Patty Stevens received a III rating on her piano solo. The year's activities were culminated by a Spring Concert in which all the music groups participated.

Graduation is sighs and laughter
Mingled liberally with tears.
Lingering memories of one's sharing
Life with classmates through the years.
Graduation is excitement,

The gate to pathways unexplored.
Graduation is an end,
